The Bleeker Award for Distinguished Contributions to Indo-Pacific Ichthyology

Nominations are now solicited for the third round of the Pieter Bleeker Awards for Excellence in Indo-Pacific ichthyology. The prize is awarded to an ichthyologist for “an outstanding body of published work in Indo-Pacific ichthyology, mainly in systematics and ecology”. Nominations may be made by any ichthyologist, including self-nominations, and should include the nominee’s curriculum vitae, details of the nominee’s specific contributions and their impacts on ichthyology.

Nominations should be submitted as an e-mail attachment by 15 October 2012 to the Chair of the Bleeker Award Committee, Professor Lynnath Beckley, Murdoch University, Australia (email: L.Beckley@murdoch.edu.au).
